Commences a "Week at West."

"Charlie"

A new administration discusses problems of an accelerated program of instruction.

Seemingly unaware of sputniks and the space age, students indulge in an age-old pastime.

New Year's construction created a between-class bottleneck at the south doors.

Lethargic students personify "Monday blues" as another week begins.

- Babara -
It's been a ball

the help in security.
See ya next year.

Results of World Series activity buzz down the hall as students return from week-end diversion.

Avid fans discuss with equal interest Squaw

Valley news as the winter season reaches its peak.

Books are re-opened with little zest and conversation dwindles as pedagogues create again an atmosphere of learning. Topic for the day,

"Education's role in the Space Age."

TUESDAY

Pursues Academics

An integral part of democratic government, student council members prepare to meet tomorrow.

Educational and democratic pursuits are displayed in Student Council meetings and in general classroom procedure. Serious debates and discussions are punctuated by a new vocabulary of words . . . "Khrushchev," "payola," and "wage disputes." Students show an active interest in current events, and through awards of merit in speech and debate, prove West's high caliber. Spring brings a bevy of fine scholarships to noteworthy seniors. In the vista of tomorrow lies the reward for today's achievement in the academic fields.

Accepting the challenge of technology, youthful chemists concentrate on careful calculations.

Newly aware of world problems, Model U. N. delegates studied governmental procedures.

Having achieved in academic fields, eager scholars find new opportunities.

WEDNESDAY

Welcomes Diversion

Proud cadets display West's standard — a 1960 innovation.

Busy Boosters spark school spirit with fantastic foyer decorations.

A welcome break . . . an assembly provides interesting as well as educational entertainment.

Technical instruction in the broad fields of chemistry and atomic physics challenges young scholars to make America first !

Student and prelector grimly face an extra day as tradition breaks itself with no furnace breakdown. Tripping over half-concealed satchels in their trek to a vacant seat, tardy assembly goers squirm past rows of knees — bared by the short-skirted trend of the season. Moon missiles and lost horizons present new thoughts to all in this age of uncertainty and indecision.

Upholds Tradition

"And so it's up with the Red and Black . . ."

Walking through "Temple Square" into downtown Salt Lake City, graduating seniors meet tomorrow.

Waltz-worn dancers pause for refreshing tete-a-tete.

At last Friday arrives, marking one week less before the end of another term. Anticipation of the evening's dance creates a flurry of discussion among the fairer sex. Basketball season finds the bleachers soon overflowing with exuberant fans as opposing teams clash. A steaming team stands surrounded by puffing Pep Clubbers, loyal to the last hoarse hurrah !

ADMINISTRATION

Dr. Edward W. Parker, Principal

Dr. Edward W. Parker, new principal of West High, stands with dignity at its helm. Never overlooking the most insignificant detail, he completes his daily tasks with the calm assurance that comes from experience. Sincerely interested in youth, he directs the school program with one goal in mind — to develop individual growth through educational experiences. Profound understanding and strong leadership are two qualities that have earned for him the respect and love of the student body.

ADMINISTRATORS

Coordinate Activities

After once meeting Dr. Knight B. Kerr, one is immediately aware of his genial, direct manner. As new assistant principal this year, he has assumed the task of sometimes overwhelming proportion. Yet, despite the endless stream of responsibility, Dr. Kerr always has time for a friendly greeting, a word of advice to students seeking his aid, or even a lengthy discussion of some pressing problem.

Mr. Bruce W. Peterson, Assistant Principal

Dr. Knight B. Kerr, Assistant Principal

The amiable Mr. Peterson has bridged the distance between student government and faculty. A gifted organizer and coordinator, he has guided many into channels of leadership. Acting as director of personnel and activities, he has won the respect and confidence of students and faculty during his first year at West.

COUNSELORS AND SOCIAL WORKERS

Advise Students

Social workers and counselors provide invaluable advice for students. Acting as friends and confidants, they face innumerable problems every day, which they attack with zeal and a sincere desire to help, arriving at solutions which are products of their years of training and experience. They view all questions with objectivity and insight, delving deeply into backgrounds and psychological motives. Building a worthwhile and profitable relationship between students and adults, they help guide the youth of today to become citizens of integrity for tomorrow.

OFFICE STAFF

Audits Records

Fulfilling the daily tasks and attacking the un-anticipated matters which inevitably arise, the office workers create a constant flux of activity. Bulletins, absentees, and class programs receive careful attention at their hands. Though fewer in number this year, the staff has successfully completed additional work as well as their regular duties. Laboring as a unit for the benefit of administration, teachers, and student body, these women make efficiency the object in all their functions.

Daily work goes efficiently under the supervision of a busy office staff.

SUPERINTENDENTS AND BOARD

Able directors and organizers, the superintendents, under the leadership of Dr. M. Lynn Bennion, apply their knowledge in the building of educational policies. These men show a genuine concern for students and spend countless hours in determining effective procedures. Instigators of progress, the superintendency add increased motion to the wheels of efficiency and acquisition of knowledge.

Establish Scholastic Criteria

The Board of Education functions as the governing body of our local school system; setting our educational standards, planning our school curriculum, and laying a sound basis for learning. It is their responsibility to coordinate the many factors of education into a single aim. As the elected representatives of the people, they endeavor to turn the public's suggestions and opinions into workable methods of operation.

Hardworking Board of Education establishes policies.

Promote Participation

Standing as a precedent of citizenship and scholarship, Buck Backman, A.S.W. President, has proved himself outstanding in this capacity. His ability and the efficiency with which he has carried out his responsibilities have made his term of office a success. An aptitude for the humorous, an unassuming manner, and a genuine interest in everyone have gained for him the admiration and respect of all. Behind us is another year of recognition and achievement, a tribute to quality of leadership.

Voice Student Views

Representatives of West's seventy-two home rooms meet weekly to bring problems to the attention of the administration, and to obtain information that will be conveyed to the students. A vital part of school government, student council members seek assiduously for solutions to difficulties which arise throughout the year. Mr. Peterson, sponsor; Jack Ford, chairman; and conscientious representatives strive as a unit to promote an efficient two-way communication. One in purpose, this group seeks to strengthen the tie between faculty and students.

Sciences open a new field of interest for students wishing to gain a better knowledge of the world. Physics; the science of matter and motion; botany, the study of plants; biology, the science of life; zoology, the study of animals; and chemistry, the study of chemical processes — life of every kind. The Science Fair involved all science students wishing to participate. Studies of human organs, plants, animals, and other fascinating projects were displayed. Field trips enhanced education and developed a greater understanding of many things. In this, the Space Age, great emphasis has been placed on scientific research, and West High is meeting the challenge.

Study in human anatomy proves to be fascinating.

History, the study of civilizations, past and present, gives to the student a background of what has gone before him. Maintaining that "history repeats itself," it is important that students are able to interpret and apply past facts for future use. History is a search for the truth. Becoming acquainted with the fundamentals of American life, apprentices of economics, American Problems, and Sociology are given an insight to the capitalistic system of economy, social life, and all personal problems affecting people. One of West's most stable departments, the Social Studies Department is well qualified to fulfill that which is expected from it. Classroom procedures and situations vary with the need and mood of its members . . . for current happenings are those which will become the history of tomorrow. Teaching by the unit method, teachers and students vie among themselves for numbers accomplished and difficulty achieved, and, of course, the amount learned. Films, talks and field trips to places of pertinent interest also play an important part in this department. Ultimately, students graduate prepared to participate in government affairs. Theirs is an understanding of governmental institutions and procedures. Knowing these things they become more proficient in voting with a realization of the importance of wise choices for a competent democracy. In reality, such students become better citizens of their community, their state, and their country.

LANGUAGE

• • • • •

Spanish, Latin, German, French languages are pursued by intent students desiring to advance in all types of education. A vast new experience awaits those willing to put forth extra effort toward learning a new parlance. Along with this, students gain an understanding of cultures and customs other than their own. Language clubs help to develop a more complete study of dress, food, music, and dance. Parties, made much more enjoyable by using different tongues and dress, show the fun side of learning. Through languages students better their minds to a better understanding of the world and its people.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics, the science of numbers and quantities, is one of our most varied departments, with classes to suit the interests and purposes of each and every student. Consumer Math deals with practical arithmetic, applicable to every-day-life situations, thus providing a useful working knowledge. Other courses are at the disposal of those desiring a broader background. Heads a-whirl with theorems, trapezoids, and axioms, dazed geometry students are often seen gazing into space muttering "... the product of the means ..." or "... prove this angle is equal to ..." By the same token, algebra students are easily recognizable as they frantically attempt to sort out the x's and y's from the a's and b's in a baffling equation. The more courageous students who brave the ominous-sounding titles of "trigonometry" and "college algebra" soon find themselves enjoying some of the most stimulating and challenging courses offered in high school. This is only a brief glimpse of the diversified math classes available. Whatever your future occupation, be it homemaker or calculus professor, a knowledge of math is valuable in today's modern world.

Complex equation challenges young mathematician.

SPEECH

Miss Alice Schindler

Mr. Paul Anderson

"Our friends of the affirmative . . ." be it resolved that speech efficiency, poise, self-confidence, and experience are results of participation in Speech Department activities. Inaugurating the season with a note of pre-eminence, "Time Out For Ginger" struck a chord of endorsement from everyone. Placing high in every bout, the department was an active participant in many extemporaneous and oratorical contests, and debate meets throughout the state. Through these, it shall ultimately achieve its goal to develop greater effectiveness in personal use of speech and discussion.

LIBRARY

Indicating the growing popularity of the library, statistics have shown an attendance record of over eighty-five thousand students during this past year. These students were in attendance as part of the two hundred who daily make use of library facilities before school, or as members of the five hundred classes held there. With a circulation record of over twenty-two thousand books and the heaviest use of periodicals ever, one would think that library staff members would have all they could handle; yet, theirs is the goal to build upon this, making West's library one of the largest and most widely used in the city.

MUSIC

Participating in assemblies, Sunday meeting programs, and concerts, the members of the music department bring pleasure to all who hear them. Conducting are D. Carlyle Baker and James Maher, who have worked for perfection with their various groups. Band and Orchestra have taken part in the Homecoming Parade at the B.Y.U. They have played for the D.A.R.-S.A.R. assemblies and the music department's annual Spring Concert. Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs have sung at many Sunday meetings. The P.T.A. has also called upon these groups to sing on their programs. The A Cappella has won acclaim throughout the state of Utah as being one of the finest choirs of its kind. Junior Choir also participated in activities which contributed to the success of this year's music department.

A complex array of elliptical clauses, intransitive linking verbs, and subjective complements make up our English language. It is through these and other such components that we convey our ideals, thoughts, and emotions. It is only through a clear understanding of the structure and potential power of our language that we are able to accurately communicate. In our literature is found the profile of history, drawn by masters of linguistics. From the journals of the earliest explorers to the works of modern-day authors, the pattern of life is woven with the thread of language. Originality and imagination combine with literary guidance to develop skill in creative writing. Amidst such mysterious terms as "hokko" and "tonkas" students learn to express their thoughts in various forms. They soon find out there is much less "inspiration" than plain hard work behind writing, be it poetry or prose. Short-story composition promotes the ability to put over an idea by means of characters, dialogue, and plot. Poetry involves many more facets, for in this form thoughts must be made to fit a pattern, yet still convey the desired impression. It is a class which challenges the student to express his ideas in written words. Training for work on the newspaper staff, journalism students become adept at gleaning information and compiling it into clear, concise reports. From sports to coming events, from elections to class parties, the newspaper staff charts the pulse of West High. In it is reflected our achievements, our disappointments, our dreams, and our goals. Like the daily newspapers in our homes, it informs us of the events pertinent to our lives.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Rows of typewriters in shrouds of black greet students as they enter class. All shorthand books are opened in room U305, and dictation begins at a challenging speed. Inquisitive students experiment with electric typewriters while comptometers and calculators add to the menagerie. Teachers of type, shorthand, office practice, and bookkeeping stress efficiency in business education. The predominately female classes learn the essentials of clerical work and prepare for future vocations. The various phases of training emphasize the increase of accuracy and the promotion of skill. An outstanding faculty prepares students for the business world and gives them the excellent training that makes them desirable additions to commercial firms. Improvements in facilities have added to the atmosphere of learning as well as providing more pleasant surroundings for the secretarial-minded students. The business department offers a needed service for students ambitious in this field.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Mazes of lights, tubes, and wires confront the prospective electrician; while row upon row of parked chassis present every style in the radiator-carburetor line. Industrial arts, an essentially vocational program, provides basic technics and sciences of the shop. Each course is a practical laboratory, producing craftsmen of their own. Technical drawing is the art and science of describing structures and structural details completely and accurately by graphical means of expression of ideas in a technical world — a graphic language which has its own alphabet, grammar, and penmanship. Woodwork and machine shop teach the correct and safe use of all power and hand tools involved in the shop. After students have become efficient in the tool's use, their initiative is the limit in devising their own projects. Departmental activities include many contests, in which West High traditionally takes most first place prizes.

SCHOLARSHIP

Juniors, with an eye to the future, set their minds into a flux of recollection and reasoning over the Merit Scholarship tests. A screening device for applicants for National Merit awards, the test consisted of five parts; word, English and mathematics usage, and social studies and science reading tests. Each field proved a real challenge to the scholars. The test indicated the educational status of each student as well as singling out semi-finalists for the second test, which would determine the winners.

Two of the most delightful personalities here at West this year have been our foreign exchange students. Coming from opposite sides of the world, their unusual customs and fascinating cultures intrigue each student and create great interest among everyone who comes in contact with them. Other leading students discussed current events at the T.V. Press Conferences with noted members of Congress and other outstanding citizens. As representatives of West High they mingled with participants from other schools and engaged in discussion.

WEST'S WELCOME

An orientation assembly, 7-B's, and identification tags were trademarks of a new academic year at West. Sophomores gazed uneasily down a student-filled hall of amazing length. With youthful dexterity, they battled the crowds in search of their assigned rooms. Juniors, grateful that they were now upperclassmen, could be heard scorning a lost student, definitely, a sophomore. Seniors, older and wiser, observed from above, too far removed to bother with comments. One, two, and three bears were identifying symbols of each class on "Hello Day." Highlighting the event was a matinee stocking dance — the culmination of a time for friendships, renewed, continued, and new. An air of glad association pervaded the campus. Indeed, this is the material with which the twig is nourished.

FAIR DAY

Fair Day '59 found West's halls empty soon after the dismissal bell rang. All cars headed westward, and the search for parking space began. The carnival setting created a mood of gaiety and relaxation. A vociferous combination of "hello" and "which way to the . . ." could be heard as students ribboned through the vacillating crowd. Exhibits and game booths of every sort provided fascination and entertainment for people of all tastes. Students soon discovered the value of a ferris wheel ride when searching for a lost companion or for the nearest exit. At the day's end, it was a sticky, windblown, but satisfied student body that sauntered home.

HOMECOMING

This year "W"-Week was reinstated as part of West High's Homecoming celebration. Enthusiastic students decorated classroom doors, walls, ceilings, and even lockers with crepe paper, posters, and effigies of the East High football team. On Friday, loyal alumni returned to visit their alma mater and renew acquaintances with favorite teachers. Climaxing the week-long celebration was the annual East-West battle held this year on the Panther field. The alumni pep club combined with this year's group to present a well-executed march during half-time. However, even the fervent yells of the student body failed to save the day as a fired-up Leopard team dampened high spirits by winning the game by a score of 14-7.

With "W" Week comes inaccessibility to lockers.

A homecomer returns to the books.

THANKSGIVING

The spirit of Thanksgiving was appropriately inaugurated with the presentation by the Music Departments of their first combined program of the year, "The Prayer of Thanksgiving," sung seven hundred strong. The traditional Varsity versus Faculty game was full of surprises. Happily for the confident students, the final bell left the score in their favor, but barely. Half time entertainment had a new and startling note with Junior and Senior football teams playing the gridiron with a basket and three balls on a waxed floor. Key Club, Pep Club, and Big Sisters concluded the day with complete dinners for those less fortunate; extending the spirit of thanks and giving.

"TIME OUT FOR GINGER"

Evokes Laughter

Family problems of one earnest father, in his attempts to manage the lives of three iconoclast daughters, set the pace for the comedy that left us all chuckling. Convincing his girls to be girls, tolerating their beaus, cheering on his "equal," and demonstrating to a shocked wife the virtues of his daughter's touchdown were all part of day's events for the enthusiastic parent. "Time Out for Ginger" gave the audience a glimpse of life in this hectic household with its many facets, all hilariously mirth-provoking.

DADS AND DAUGHTERS

Frolic to "Buttons and Bows"

West High girls have found a fun-filled way to become better acquainted with their fathers, as once a year they take Dad to the annual W.A.G. sponsored Fathers' and Daughters' Party. At this year's "Buttons & Bows," the girls discovered that their fathers still possessed a streak of the mischievous school boy; while Dad found his daughter had a lot more pep for shaving his beard than for doing the dishes. After the round of games, a rollicking square dance was held to top off the evening. The West High Gym rocked with the sound of singing and stomping as agile gents swung their gals to the music.

BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHT

Strengthens Mutual Understanding

A night for parents! West proudly opened its doors to a crowd of hundreds of fathers and mothers, proof positive of parents' interest. Many favorable comments were heard as parents participated in school room activity and observed teaching methods. Long ascents to far-off rooms brought sighs as Moms and Dads settled into desks which proved a little snug. Alumni cast reminiscing glances at the seal around which their children now pass. Back to School Night showed to parents West's fine combination of outstanding faculty and modern educational methods.

Anomolous, bizarre, unwonted: "The Beat Generation — Kapoto" provided mood and atmosphere for the iconoclast Junior Class "do nothing" party. The beat-niks, appropriately attired for the event, passed the time chatting through the throb of bongo drums, lounging lazily on floor mats, meditating over poetry books, peering through the dimly lighted corners over chessmen and checkers, dancing to appropriately "beat" records, or passing through the strings of macaroni between rounds of twists and cider. Through the languid mood and musty atmopshere, Bohemianism pulsated to permeate the jungle of chalk and board for one indolent evening.

A mystic mood was created by the unusual decorations, which depicted a journey through five foreign countries. The W. A. G. sponsored dance succeeded in making this evening a utopia of dreams. Intimate and unforgettable, the mood and the music captivated all who attended. CADET HOP

Through the soft swishing loveliness of pastel formals, the starry-eyed couples whirled to the strains of Mell Hall's orchestra. The Forty-second Annual Cadet Hop, sponsored by West High School Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, was set in all the grandeur of a military ball. The grand march, a two-hundred year old army tradition was performed in precision by every cadet. Extending another tradition, the custom of cutting the cake with a sabre was observed by the cadet lieutenant colonel's lady.

DOGPATCH DOIN'S

Merriment and laughter heralded the annual sophomore class party, this year titled "Dogpatch Doin's." Planned under the direction of the sophomore class officers, the theme was "hillbilly," and the dress strickly "grub." Those attending realized such suppressed desires as going to school barefoot and popping balloons in the gym. "Musical Boys" was the favorite frolic of the evening with the gents substituting for chairs in the traditional "musical chairs" game. Following refreshments, door prizes were awarded from prominent downtown firms. Festivities over, the part-time hillbillies returned to their shacks in the Rocky Mountain foothills.

JUNIOR PROM

Couples enjoyed the oriental atmosphere.

A Sakura Garden — a gold and red pagoda, soft lighted lanterns, delicate cherry blossoms, and beaded curtains — lent an oriental atmosphere of enchantment to this year's Junior Prom. This was a very special occasion since West has not had a Junior Prom for several years, and students had looked forward to the event with high anticipation. All their hopes were realized as they danced to the swing rhythm of Bill Link's Combo and drank sweet nectar served from the hands of pretty, gracious kimono-ed girls. Exuberant with life and dates and dreams, these teenagers will relive this night in an enchanting Sakura Garden as memories linger long for those who attended the Junior Prom of 1960.

DEBUT OF SPRING

The girls' gym, transformed into a Japanese Tea Garden, was the setting for the W.A.G.-sponsored Mothers' and Daughters' Party. Having been greeted with organ music, the guests enjoyed refreshments and gay chatter which were followed by the featured event of this gala occasion — a fashion show with Mrs. Frankie Neilson as the charming informal commentator. W.A.G. members modeled sports wear and afternoon clothes. Prizes added excitement to the evening. Mrs. Katherine McClure, W.A.G. sponsor, and Linda Johnson, vice president of the organization, created a mood of friendliness and fun.

The evening's entertainment combined the atmosphere of a hula with the joviality of ballads by the "Keynotes." Drawings for prizes brought gasps of astonishment from lucky-number holders, and many fine gifts were carried home. Dancing followed light refreshments, and natives departed with the traditional Hawaiian farewell, "Aloha."

COUNTRY HOE-DOWN

Western Round-up plus Cotton Capers equals the Country Hoe-Down and a real fun-filled equation for West High. Boxed lunches and bar-room drinks appeased huge country appetites, and square dancing added to the merriment. The Marriage Booth witnessed many temporary alliances with Parson Padjen performing the ceremonies. The pie-eating contest highlighted the evening as participants delved wholeheartedly into nine-inch pastries. Ball-room dancing made the equation complete, and the event was declared a success by all.

PEP ASSEMBLIES

Fight! Fight! Fight! These are echoes of enthusiastic students as they prepare for a home game. Bustling into the gym to root their team on to victory, they are motivated by the very capable Pep Club, Cheerleaders, and band. Thunderous roars of cheering, demonstrating student assurance, is vital in spurring the team to glory. AWARDS BANQUET

In honor of conscientious donors of time and effort, the Senior Awards Banquet extended a congratulatory hand to students whose three years at West had been marked by outstanding scholarship and service. The awards committee spent weeks of careful screening, and invitations were sent to worthy students who had participated in the fields of scholarship, athletics, R.O.T.C., publications, creative arts, school government, and special assignments. The banquet crystallized the seniors' activities into a concrete experience. The event brought into focus the gratifying sense of achievement that can only be felt by those who serve.

The long-anticipated Lagoon Day arrived and students tossed their books aside for a sunny day of relaxation. Various diversions followed the Lagoon Day tradition, and laughter reached its peak in moments of carefree frolic around the pool. GRADUATION

With commencement comes a new beginning as the last hours of twelve years of training and study slip away. Prospective collegians recall with fond retrospection the thrill of standing at their premier assembly beside a balcony seat, the newly found esteem of no longer being subordinate, the grave realization of the responsibilities before them. With the diploma is issued the challenge, for much is expected, and much will be given.

FOOTBALL

West 19 South 6

The "B-boys," Marty Brinton and Paul Brainich, got the Panthers off to a thirteen-point lead in the thrilling first quarter at Derks Field. Paul blocked a punt and fell on the ball in the end zone for the first West tally. Marty completed this act when he darted up the middle for the second. He then plunged the ball through the goal posts for the extra point. The Cubs drove back in the second half, and Dave Triptow scooted the ball over in the last period. However, it was too late to overcome the Panther lead. Victory for West in the season's first game inspired both team and student body.

A new face in the football scene this year is that of Coach Don Jespersen. Diligent effort with his team has won him praise and has shown his capabilities in the sports field. His capacity to organize and synchronize team effort has been a vital asset to the players. Guided by Coach Jespersen, the boys are given constructive pointers that aid in the perfection of football techniques. His superior training has contributed much to the development of an adept team.

Whether exploding up the middle or jack-rabbling around the end, our football hero moves like an armored truck with wings. He throws passes and catches them, punts, kicks extra points, blocks like a steamroller, and tackles like a hungry tiger. He's just plain dynamite. Crowds come out in droves to watch him play. They love to see him crunch through the line and explode into the open field like a torpedo. Every football man has a streak of "ham" in him. Call it "flair for the dramatic" or just plain conceit, but nothing gives him more pleasure than to be able to wave an old column, pound his chest, and proudly bellow his gridiron achievements. The big, burly American football hero magnifies his school's pride. Boasting two honorary All-Staters and an All-American, the Panther team led their battle with a vengeance. Each block meant extra yards, each man poured his best competition effort into every play. In the sinking moments as seconds ticked to buzzing end, every one knew that the boys would come back fighting, and fight they did!

Highland 13 West 7

Early in the game, West came back to tie Highland's score, 7-7. Tension mounted as the teams struggled for the winning touchdown. With two minutes and eleven seconds left to play, the Rams scored again and victory was theirs.

With a resounding thud, a player is knocked to the turf as opposing teams grapple frantically for possession of the ever-elusive ball. This is football: the helmeted, jersey-clad figures; the wildly cheering fans; the hot dogs and popcorn, as important to the games as the football itself. There are joyous moments as elated spectators watch their herds dash across the goal-line for a zero-hour touchdown; and there are disappointments as a crushing drive for the goal is turned back at the one-yard line. Though rougher in years gone past, the game still packs enough thrills and chills to satisfy the most avid excitement-seekers. It is no pastime for the weak-hearted, for the fever-pitch of excitement leaves the audience feeling as if they had played the entire game themselves. Football also has its quiet moments; a hushed silence descends as tense fans await a referee's decision, or a potential tie-breaking field goal. The silence is finally broken by gleeful shouts or disgusted groans. The delights and heartaches, the laughs and the tears, the victories and defeats, all make up the rough 'n' tumble game called football.

West 13 Granite 14

West was off to a good start with thirteen points against Granite's digitless score. With forty seconds to go in the half, Granite plunged through for six points. Again in the fourth quarter, the Farmers excelled for a 14-13 verdict.

East 21 West 7

Disappointed student body and alumni watched the Leopards score twenty-one points against West's seven. In the second period, Marty Brinton made a 94-yard run for a touchdown, but it was nullified by an official's decision. Marty scored again in the second and Jim Hibler kicked for the extra point. Fumbles proved costly and East scored twice in the fourth quarter.

The skill gained from weeks of conscientious practice showed itself in outstanding teamwork on the floor. This acquisition of basketball skill is attributed to Coach Steve Heiner, who has shown his fine ability in his first year on West's faculty. His succeeding years are sure to fulfill his expectations and reward the time spent. The carefully devised procedures which he put into action were positive proof of his knowledge in this field. Teamwork combined with fast action to provide real challenge to opposing teams. Tense moments of the unpredictable games plainly showed the team's ability to make on-the-spot decisions and carry through with maneuvers. Constant work and persistent playing were marks of our agile players.

Coaches

Flashing limbs working in perfect coordination; quick-moving bodies racing up and down the floor . . . Basketball, the only major sport of wholly American origin, is played before more spectators every year than any other game. Popular because of its fast action and tense moments, the game demands and develops a high degree of muscular coordination and skill as well as qualities of leadership and sportsmanship. There is no place here for a player who performs as an individual; limiting his team's chances of winning. A form of basketball was first played by the Mayas of Mexico. The modern game was invented in 1891 by James Naismith, an instructor at the Young Men's Christian Association College in Springfield, Massachusetts. He devised it to fill the need for a vigorous, exciting indoor game to keep his athletes physically fit and entertained between football and baseball seasons. After some thought on the matter he nailed a peach basket to the wall of the gymnasium. He then divided his class into two sections, or teams, and started a contest between them. The object of the game was to see which side could toss a soccerball into the peach basket more often. From that start basketball developed into the swift, scientific game we know today. No longer is it a "hit and miss" proposition. Every move, every second counts in the achievement of the ultimate score. Because it builds an all-around athlete, the game now plays a major part in the physical and athletic training programs of every high school, university, church and many business organizations; while the basketball court occupies the central position of almost every driveway, schoolyard, gymnasium, and fieldhouse in the country.

The Panthers jumped into an early lead and paced West to a triumph over Highland in an exciting battle of height and might. It was basket-by-basket action in the fourth, but, in the last minute, West took a five point lead and held it for a thrilling victory.

West lost hopes of a possible third place standing as the Cubs took the lead and held it during most of the game. A ten-point scoring binge in the fourth quarter assured South's victory.

East 71 West 57

West and East met again in a determined duel of speed and accuracy. The Leopards put on the pressure and racked up a fourteen-point lead by the time the game ended.

BASEBALL

Ball meets bat and within seconds an agile runner streaks down the baseline; outfielders dive for the ball, the throw is made and the umpire yells, "Yer out!" Baseball, the focal point of springtime sports activity, is underway once more. The national pastime received due attention as athletes limbered up for regional competition. Timing and synchronization proved to be advantageous components in furthering the distinguished sports record maintained throughout West's history.

Coaches Gene Plaga, Albert Hunt.

Coach Plaga, a newcomer to the school, has demonstrated his ability to train and perfect a track team. Conscientious work with his boys has reaped results that prove his knowledge of track procedures. Distance runs, middle distance runs, and sprints come under his line of fine instruction. Coach Hunt, in charge of the weight men, trains in such areas as discus, javelin, and shot put. He, too, has done a job worthy of note. The team has put forth superior effort in building power and increasing skill. Track meets find West holding its own in all categories.

SPRINTERS — Left to Right, Row One: Dale Wilkerson, Don James, Artie Lawrence, Joe Varoy, Leland Bates. Row Two: Bob Chido, Dick Baggett, Merrill Stone, Lynn Levingstone, Frank Lowden, Richard Neumann, Marty Brinton, Jim Norton.

April first — the official opening of track season. With a brightened out-look for this year, the track team has worked eagerly toward taking region. An important event has been the invitational track meet held at the B.Y.U. which proved very profitable for our team. Dixie College and many other important meets were highlighted during the past year. With every good team there must be a better coach, and coach Plaga is described by his own boys as filling this position.

TENNIS TEAM

A forceful back-hand drive wins the game! Another victory for the West High Panthers! With excellent form and skill, our tennis team achieves ultimate heights as they win match after match for their school. Mr. Don Jespersen coaches and drills until the technique of each player is polished to perfection. Practicing during the summer also, the team members show their great enthusiasm and love for the sport, and develop themselves for the spring season. Giving of themselves to reach professional standards, they work unselfishly as a well-organized team. Sharp, alert minds are developed for the problems accompanying this challenging sport. LEADERS CLUB

Composed entirely of senior girls, Leaders Club, sponsored by Miss Colleen Jessen, offers its members an opportunity to take part in sports activities. Since the club has a limited membership, those aspiring to join were considered through detailed applications. The girls were not singled out merely on the basis of athletic merit but because of their qualifications in all fields from scholarship to dependability. With the purpose of promoting good sportsmanship, the club has sponsored, officiated, and played in the intramurals. Due to this excellent training in the field of leadership, and the opportunity to put this training to practical use, these girls leave Leaders Club well equipped to become useful members of their community.

RED AND BLACK

There is a flurry of activity as a busy staff of young journalists prepares for an approaching deadline. Twelve times this year, Red and Black staff has edited a paper, and each has shown the caliber of its conscientious producers. Kathey Burbidge, editor of the '59-'60 Red and Black, has, through her diligent efforts, brought regional recognition to West for its fine paper. Ken Clifford, business manager, has worked zealously with Kathey in her constant effort for improvement. As feature editor, Pat Hazelrigg has done a noteworthy job. Producing a lasting image of newsworthy events, camera-toting Durie Johnson has added the touch that makes a paper live. Sports editor, Tom Brown, and assistant, Elaine Dokos, have re-created, in words, the thrilling moments of West's many sports activities. In charge of business matters, Cheryll Jordan has proved her ability. Reporter, Siegfried Brockert, brought his journalistic talents from Germany and has applied them on West's staff. Able sponsor, Mrs. A. G. Heaton, has acted as guide, director, and organizer in aiding the staff as a unit, to achieve its goal. The annual Christmas writing contest, sponsored by Red and Black, was again a success with two winning entries. The poem, "Christmas" and the story, "The Silver Case," received, as awards for their excellence, five-dollar gift certificates. Another item of interest in the Christmas edition was a complete page devoted to Christmas in foreign lands. Appearing with each edition, such features as "This and That," "Kampus Korner," and "Tips" have added enjoyment for student readers. Staff and student body are equally proud of West's fine paper, the Red and Black.

"Don't delay! Enter the West Winds Contest!" heralded the annual competition. Entries of both prose and poetry poured into room 211 as the deadline approached. Aiming for the finest in quality, the capable staff selected and published the very best material submitted. Under the direction of Miss Helen Thomas, their sponsor, members in the production of the magazine worked with a feeling of unity and efficiency. High goals and determination have proved to be great assets in making West Winds an excellent publication.

A CAPPELLA

With a premium on excellence, West High School's A Cappella Choir, one hundred fifty strong, has soared to reach unusual heights of achievement during 1959-1960. Many hours of tireless rehearsal were required to bring performances to their peak. Uniforms acted as a unifying force to give the group a feeling of oneness. Mr. Maher's skilled musicianship and leadership were the motivating forces which brought development. A year, rich in experience and superior achievement, highlighted by outstanding choral recitation for the Utah Music Educators Association and countless other programs has brought the satisfaction of achievement.

CHORUS

Anyone who enjoys singing finds he may choose from a wide variety of groups in the West High choral department. Once the decision has been made, all that is left are the tryouts held at the end of the year. The time is made apparent by the pale faces and glazed eyes of the hopeful singers awaiting their turns. The posting of audition results is followed by squeals of "I made it! I made it!" and "How did I get it?" Even though John Smith didn't quite make Girls' Glee, and Sally Sophomore is crushed for not being admitted to Junior Choir, the general atmosphere is one of surprise and relief. In the Fall begins the real work. Under the direction of James Maher, the groups buckle down to the task of rehearsing for school assemblies and parent-teacher performances. The day before Thanksgiving vacation a musical treat was presented by the entire music department, including the band and orchestra, as well as the choruses. From Girls' Glee to Junior Choir the choral groups provide for all musical tastes and voices from bass to soprano, from alto to tenor. The variety of sections make an entertaining and profitable class for anyone who enjoys music.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA

Two of West's most energetic organizations, the band and orchestra, have won recognition, for themselves and West High, throughout the Salt Lake area with their springtime concerts in local schools. The ambitious instrumentalists, who have worked with Mr. Baker, have given up much of their spare time for rehearsals. They can be proud to say that Mr. D. Carlyle Baker, their conductor, has composed several of the numbers that they play. One of their favorites is the "Christmas Overture." Establishing the tempo for many assemblies and creating the mood for extra programs, the orchestra has provided service as well as pleasure at the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies and "Time Out For Ginger," our school play. "Strike up the band!" has become a by-word at games. Pep club drills, songs, and cheers have been enlivened to the tunes of trumpets and drums. Donating their time to football and basketball games, the members of the band have helped to promote enthusiasm and to boost the morale of the players.

CHEERLEADERS

Gravity-defying vaults and bandage-resulting somersaults; there are our cheerleaders! Non-conforming, with a zest for the original, they rally forth with the latest in style, action, and yells. In the gym, down the halls, around the seal, or on the field; their aim is the same. Theirs is the ambition to bond the spirit between themselves and their followers; whether singing in devotion to their alma mater or roaring in victory to their team. Agile, spirited, individualists, this fun-loving set, with voices screamed hoarse and hands clapped red, have impelled the concourse to thundering support and the team to unflagging determination.

A spirit booster for the Granite-West game!

PEP CLUB

Marching is only one of the many facets in the active life of a Pep Club girl. The drilling for half-time performances is punctuated by exchanges, parties, and gay get-togethers. Building spirit before home games, they startle many a sophomore as they troop through the halls yelling "You Panthers, Fight." Precision marching, combined with spirited cheering, make the Pep Club one of the prominent organizations at West.

KEY CLUB

Dapper young men in smart white sweaters, vivid game-day programs jauntily peddled from room to room, animated posters, warning, pleading; the West High Key Club, manned by forty-two exclusively selected and initiated Jr. Kiwanians, is known for its dedication to service both at school and in the community. In collaboration with the Pep Club, their first major activity was a complete Thanksgiving dinner for a local family. Subbing for Santa was their pleasure, and entertaining at children's hospitals throughout the city brought its reward in bright smiles. New library books and an addition to the scholarship fund were also direct results of their efforts.

BIG SISTERS

Big Sisters, a lively group of senior girls, extend a helping hand to sophomore girls and strive to acquaint them with their new surroundings. Ushering at the vocational conference, presenting Christmas programs at hospitals, and sponsoring individual parties for sophomore girls are only a few of the time-consuming activities that have gained them recognition both in school and community. Acting as information booths for inquiring new students, the girls advise against such misdemeanors as trespassing on the school seal. Having gained much satisfaction from their work in orienting and encouraging these girls, Big Sisters leave West with a hearty, "Good luck, Sophomores!"

Trains for the Future

Future leaders in military defense, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, under the leadership of Sergeant Figge, is a fine representative of the United States Army, and of West High School. Under strict discipline, the ROTC receives military training for future defense of our Country. Group and company commanders, and platoon leaders strive to promote efficiency and raise standards. Drill, Rifle, and Usher teams, volunteer groups, have, through many hours of practice, been able to compete against neighboring schools with better than average success. These, and First Aid Team, have received high commendation for their excellent performances in school and community. Participation in the Armed Forces Day parade, presentation of an educational assembly about flags of our country, and the annual Cadet Hop are a few of the activities that have been highlights of our year. Tomorrow's forces, R.O.T.C., begin today to prepare for the serious task of defending our nation.

SOCIAL CLUBS

Unite Common Interests

Dashing through the snow!

Our many clubs organized for service as well as for enjoyment, meet on various days of the week to plan and work for our school. Booster Club, whose sponsor is Frank Baughman, uses the art ability of its members to boost spirit before games. Keeping order through assemblies is the duty of the members of Ushers Club. Ski Club, whose activities consist of ski fashion shows, movies, and skiing, is one of our largest clubs. Irma Hansen is the sponsor of the Y Teens. Through the year, the members swim, skate, and participate in almost every sport for girls. Log Club is designed to increase school spirit and West High's place as a top-ranking school.

Phil Boren, President

Phil's sincerity and ready sense of humor have proved valuable qualities for a class leader. These assets, along with an amicable manner, have established for him an outstanding and enviable record at West High.

SENIOR OFFICERS

Enthusiasm increases as commencement approaches and the Senior Class has molded memories which will bring smiles in future reminiscences of their high school days. The senior class party served to unite the classmen, and fun and frolic highlighted the event. The Awards Banquet was a fine reward for three years of work and service.

Name engraved cards were exchanged as the flurry of last-minute preparation increased. Graduation ceremonies culminated three years of opportunity in developing potential and achieving goals. The adult world stands waiting. Seniors pause and glance back but a moment, then push onward to higher goals and greater challenges.

Ted Bell, First Vice President

Ted sets an excellent example as an energetic leader of the senior students. His warmth, his vigor, and his spirit have been driving forces in the accomplishments of the class of 1960.

Janet Healey,

Second Vice President

Presence of mind and sincerity of heart personify Janet. With her winning charm and creative mind, she strives for only the best. She has served her class well.

Joyce Fugii, Secretary

A sparkling and radiant personality is synonymous with Joyce Fugii. Willing and able to get along with others, she has achieved with honor a station among the students of West High.

MOST VALUABLE STUDENT: John Trinnaman is a person representing meritorious achievement in service, scholarship, activity, personality, and leadership. He has more than filled the necessary requirements by being a member of the Scholarship and the Awards Committee, serving as an exchange student, president of Physiology Club and the Debate Team, and by participating in Key Club, Latin Club, Chess Club, and numerous other activities during his three years at West High.

LEADERSHIP: Lynda Johnson's dark eyes, the enthusiasm in her cheery voice, the charm of her warm smile, the wisdom in her words, and her sympathy and understanding are only a few of the qualities that make people want to follow her leadership. The W.A.G. assembly was evidence of her creative ability. Pleasing, and yet firm about her beliefs, Lynda represents the fine leadership at West High.

BEST CITIZEN: Nadine Alleman, liked by everyone, friendly towards all, represents outstanding citizenship. In Physiology Club, Future Teachers Club, Big Sisters, a participant in the Model U.N., serving as a Pep Club officer; whatever the activity, Nadine has continually demonstrated all the necessary ingredients for the making of a best citizen.

SERVICE: Juby Benavidez, noted for his outstanding participation in R.O.T.C., band and orchestra, truly personifies service. He instigated the pep band which, under his able direction, has provided a musical backing at all pep rallies and games. For capably serving in the R.O.T.C., for going out of his way to give help wherever it was needed, for using originality and perseverance to boost school spirit, Juby receives the senior class Service Award.

SENIOR

PERSONALITIES

A helping hand, a cheerful smile, a zealous mind delineate the capable. Chosen as representatives of this year's senior class in the fields of leadership, activity, scholarship, service and personality are outstanding students whose three years at West have distinguished them as holders of great potential. Willingness to devote their time in school endeavors and a desire to give of their ability has added much to the school and rewarded the donors. They have shouldered the responsibility required of leadership. The most valuable student and best citizen award are fine merits of achievement given to two students who have shown outstanding attitude and ability in the many facets of curriculum from the sophomore to the senior year. Seniors proudly extend a hand of fellowship to these seven who represent their class in honor and proficiency.

PERSONALITY: A scholar — a leader, with an easy charm which is all his own, Dennis Taylor has been known for his modesty and congeniality. Sincerely interested in everything and everyone, Dennis has been a loyal participant in every activity. Jack-of-all-trades, but master of fun, this well-rounded ambassador of good will has won Panther's vote as senior personality.

SCHOLARSHIP: Noted as a merit scholar, Stewart Player is recognized by teachers and students alike as a willing worker and a welcome asset to every class. Active in Key Club, Student Council, and other activities he has maintained an "A" average during his three years at West. Genial and mature he personifies the "ideal student."

ACTIVITY: Quiet, smiling, capable Janice Rabiger has brought honor to West through her many activities. She has been in Pep Club, A'Capella, on the Panther staff, and president of the Future Teachers Club. She took part in the Teenage Press Conference, the Model U.N., and was our exchange student to New Zealand. Her zest for life and accomplishment has found expression in all her activity. She is one of many that have been recognized by faculty and fellow students.

Reiner Prawitt, President

A friendly word of greeting for everyone, a willingness to take part in school activities, a sincere desire to improve all facets of school life . . . these exemplify the leader of the mid-classmen.

Mr. George Robinson
Sponsor

JUNIOR OFFICERS

As a major branch of the ever-growing tree, the Junior Class has typified activity. Contributing to spirit, the Pep Club has encouraged enthusiasm at pep rallies and games. Eagerness and animation have marked all mid-classman activities, from Blue Indigo, the Pep Club dance, to Kopoto, the class party. Highlight of the year was the long-awaited Junior Prom — at last a reality due to the perseverance of class leaders. Serving capably, the Junior Class has furthered West's honorable record.

Carolyn Ludlow Geisler
First Vice President

With calm assurance and a gracious attitude, Carolyn glides through her every task with confidence and ease. Consideration and sweet charm are only two of the many assets of this lovely person.

Barbara Smith
Second Vice President

Sparkling with exuberance, Barbara delights all who come in contact with her. Her invigorating personality inspires and fascinates fellow students.

Carolyn Burt
Secretary

Whether engaged in animated conversation, or absorbed in planning a junior class activity, Carolyn invariably has an unflagging enthusiasm for the matter at hand. Willingly devoting her time and energy to improving the junior class, she has achieved admirably in this, as well as her other fields of endeavor.

Representing the various branches of the tree, these students possess the distinctive qualities characteristic of West High criteria. They have meritoriously performed in their respective fields, winning the admiration and esteem of their fellow students. Unwaveringly, they have endeavored to accomplish and achieve. Though each has excelled in a particular field, all have striven to fulfill the requisites of every area of school life. Through their outstanding execution of tasks, whether required or chosen, they have more than won recognition for themselves and their school: they have grown in knowledge and character. They are symbolic of today's youth.

LEADERSHIP: Actively participating in numerous school functions, Mike Newell has proved his leadership ability during the past two years. The rare combination of a ready wit and a deep awareness of responsibility have marked him as one worthy of merit in all fields.

ACTIVITY: Ready to do his best in all activities, Bill Boosinger has shown a strong sense of duty as well as great potential. Participating in athletics, A'Capella Choir, and known as the school's only honorary male W.A.G. member, Bill has been chosen to represent his class in the field of activities.

JUNIOR PERSONALITIES

PERSONALITY: Kathy Thompson's winsome smile radiates animation and sincerity. Her easy manner and quiet grace lend poise to every occasion, giving prestige to her wise decisions. Characterized by these and other desirable qualities, Kathy has been chosen to represent her class in the field of personality.

SCHOLARSHIP: Conscientious Hannah Sohn, has maintained a straight "A" average during her two years at West. Dependable, courteous, and liked by all, she personifies dependability and charm. Quiet and sincere, Hannah is noted as an able scholar.

SERVICE: Conscientious and eager to serve, Kathleen Lea receives Panther's nod as an outstanding personality. A zealous stage crew member, she has been always ready to lend a helping hand. Sparkling and warm, Kathleen has given much and asked little in return.

Larry Kershaw, President

Pleasant and soft-spoken Larry has guided well the activities of the sophomore class. His capable leadership has directed the somewhat bewildered students who have been seeking status in a new school.

Mrs. Margaret H. Quinn

SOPHOMORE OFFICERS

A silvery, frosted Christmas tree and giant gingerbread men created a gay, Christmas mood at the Sophomore sponsored dance, "Visions of Sugar Plums." Frolicking fun depicted "Dogpatch Doin's" as sophomores delighted in the jaunty atmosphere.

Sponsored by Mrs. Margaret H. Quinn, these energetic students added greatly to the success of this year's activities. Enthusiasm, spirit, talent, energy, willingness to work, and vivacity . . . all this portrays the sophomore class of 1959-60.

Bill Harman, First Vice President

Thoughtful, yet outgoing and friendly, Bill combines a riotous sense of humor with easy camaraderie to execute the duties of his office in top-notch fashion.

Jane LeSueur,
Second Vice President

An easy-going manner and deep sincerity have proved to be priceless assets to Jane. Her ability to "give and take" when necessary has aided in achieving satisfactory results. Trademarks of her personality are a smile and a cheery word for all.

Judy Urry, Secretary

Bubbling with a vivacious, cheery personality, Judy enchants all who know her. Her mature judgment and leadership have been invaluable in the solving of sophomore problems.

LEADERSHIP: Whether skillfully directing or efficiently organizing, Maxine Hamilton typifies leadership. A sure-fire combination of rollicking wit and able competence make her a highly-esteemed example of excellent leadership.

ACTIVITY: A prominent participant in many school activities, Dick Nemelka has become known for his prowess in athletic endeavors. A typical teenage boy, his extra-curricular life centers around cars and basketball. For exemplifying enthusiasm and industry, Dick receives the Panther's nod in the field of activities.

Representing the Sophomores as outstanding leaders, personalities, and scholars, these students have given many hours of devoted service to West. Loyal, deserving and energetic, their earnest willingness has boosted school spirit and accomplishment. Their contributions have resulted in their being selected as Panther Personalities. Scholarship, personality, service, and activity are the achievements that make these students special young Americans of today and the leaders of tomorrow. They have used high school as the setting for growth and service.

SOPHOMORE PERSONALITIES

PERSONALITY: A quiet charm punctuated by vivacious laughter mark Stormy Eichbauer's personality. Her sincerity and genuine concern for others have proved valuable in her ability to make friends. Participation in school functions has proved her power to enjoy and be enjoyed.

SERVICE: Eleanor Kobayashi, known as an ambitious worker, has proved her dependability as a moving force on W.A.G. projects. A willingness to "push up her sleeves and pitch in" has brought Eleanor a fine record of accomplishment. Her thoroughness has taken her into the heart of activities and her capability has made them outstanding.

SCHOLARSHIP: Through diligent endeavor Jean Pearson has maintained a high-honor average throughout her sophomore year. For excelling in the field of scholarship she is recognized as a capable representative of academic achievement.

with an eye to the FUTURE

We congratulate the far sighted youth of today for their wisdom, scholarship and industry in pursuing the study of mechanics, engineering, and science for tomorrow's progress.

Barbara
when you go married and go to bed don't be chicken go ahead. (shout)
Good luck. Aunt

IN MEMORIAM

Dear Barbara,
Hope to see you in
about 6 of my classes next year. It's been a real blast having you
in history. (when you were there)!!
You a sweet girl and deserve
a hole lot of things.
Be careful
Larry

ACKNOWLEDGING...

Here flourishes the tree of life, symbol of the intricate network of human experience. Likened unto its great branches are the varied aspects of association that influence the "twist of the twig." From added emphasis on academic gains which presents the challenge, from welcomed diversion when a busy scholar takes time out, and from genial camaraderie that fosters new awareness and maturity, emerges the man. Here, then, twigs are seasoned into saplings.

Portraying student life, Panther's introductory section, "A Week at West," illustrates the influences that have individualized the 1959-60 school year. A new awards section acknowledges the proficient in special endeavors while traditional class personality awards give recognition to outstanding individuals in general fields.

Student body, faculty, and staff have created and sponsored the events that prompt vivid memories. The western flair of "Country Hoedown," enchanting "Visions of Sugar Plums," our mirth-provoking "Time Out for Ginger," and all inclusive graduation have enriched our experience and broadened horizons.

Few realize the amount of work or time required of the handful of people who produce a yearbook.

We gratefully acknowledge the services of Wheelwright Lithographing Company and Mr. Ray Bergman, whose professional guidance has been of great value.

The center of an anomaly of proofs and prints, Boyd Hill and his capable staff have worked conscientiously to develop some 2200 portraits. Their genial interest and cooperation are appreciated.

Warm and sincere, our adviser, Mrs. Ardelle Mills, has boosted staff morale.

Late evenings, Saturdays, and early morning hours have been spent in revising copy, printing and reprinting negatives, scheduling appointments, indexing carbons, inking in artwork, and balancing a shaky budget as talented and loyal staff members have labored long to produce the 1960 Panther.

Life is swift in passing; school days are soon but memories. We hope this record will help to recapture significant moments. May the tree of life be fruitful as purposeful hands and uplifted hearts exalt the dignity of man and aspire for perfection.

Sincerely,

Heidi Hanson, Editor

Christine Hatton-Ward, Associate Editor

- BARBARA -
 (MY WRITING IS KIND OF OUT OF PROPORTION): BUT:
 I HOPE YOU CAN READ IT.
 YOU'RE A CUTE GAL & A HOT OF FUN TO BE AROUND.
 DONT CHANGE OVER THE SUMMER.

YOUR Friend
 - BILL HARMAN -

Barbara, a nice girl and I've enjoyed knowing you this year. I hope to see you next year.
 Good luck always.

P.S. I think I'll have to go by Jackie because I keep getting all mixed up.

Barbara, I had a ball
 playing and fighting with you. Be good this summer and have fun. I'll be with
 you. Seriously Barbara,
 Jackie a doll.

Biggy
 (John A. Buddy)

Dear BARBARA,
 You are a very pretty girl. I actually don't know you too terrifically well but you are certainly a sweet friendly person to associate with.

Love
 Eileen

Dear Barbara,
 School's almost
 out. How about that.
 It's been fun having you in geometry this year. Sinker is neat. Good luck always. Have lots of fun this summer in
 your neat car!!
 Your friend always,
 Elizabeth

Dear Barbara,
 I'm glad I got to know
 you this year and I've enjoyed every minute of it. Next year if we get a class together (I hope)
 we'll think of a good way to stuff like we were going to this year. You have a wonderful personality and next year (like this one) you'll be on top.
 A friend,
 Carol

Dear Barb
 It's been fun again
 this year. You have added
 a little spice to my life.
 I'll bring some you for a long time I hope.
 Your friend
 Donna Wilcox

Hi Barbara,
 Well I hardly know you since you stay first period about every day. But the times you have been here it's been fun.
 Your friend
 Sandy

Dear Barbara -
 I really enjoyed this year. You're a swell girl. Don't hate me to much because I have anything against
 you. I wish you all the luck
 in the world.
 Be real good to Dick and swell girl.
 Take it easy.
 This summer

Barb.

It has been fun not seeing you in English,
I hope I don't see you
any more.

Kentoon

Best of luck and have loads of fun
during the summer!!
It has been fun
knowing you and sharing
laughers the first half!
Joan Haggerty

Barbra,

I hope I have you in some of my classes next year, you are a real cute kid.

Roger McMullen

Barbara -
I've enjoyed meeting you this year and having you in gym. You have a darling personality and always stay sweet.
Good Luck
